Job Description:

Tuttle Orchards is seeking educators for their fall school field trip program. Tuttle's has been providing high quality field trip programming for over 30 years. Current programs include standards based educational opportunities for children ages 2yrs to 5th grade. Educators give educational, engaging tours of Tuttle's apple and pumpkin production areas while teaching children about life science, history, economics, nutrition, and agriculture.

This is a great opportunity for education majors or graduates to receive non-traditional education experience working with a variety of age groups. Guides will receive training in relating agricultural education to all aspects of the curriculum.

The program runs from September 15-October 31st with training proceeding. Hours are flexible, but typically include Monday-Friday 8:30AM-2:30PM. Additional weekend and afternoon hours available in other positions if interested.

Qualifications:

Qualified candidates should be enthusiastic, friendly, and enjoy working with the public. Background must demonstrate strong communication skills and the ability to teach groups of people and children; demonstrated interest in agriculture/horticulture a plus, but not necessary. Training in education or a related field a plus. Candidate must be able to memorize scripted and related background information, and be comfortable with adapting that information to various age groups. Extensive training is provided.

Interested candidates should direct questions and resumes to Ruth Ann Roney, Agritourism Director at info@tuttleorchards.com or 317-326-2278. Applications are accepted through September 1, 2008.
